favorable opportunity to manufacturers and others to obtain one of the most desirable and extensive catales and water powers in New-England.

The above mentioned preperty is situated within the limits of Luddow, Springfield and Wiftraham, in the State of Massachusetts. It lies upon both sides of the Chicopes River, which runs through the center of the estate for a distance of about one and a half miles. It is distant from the City of Springfield about six miles, on the line of the Western Railroad, which passes over the estate but a short distance from its center.

The Indian Orchard (late Wilbraham) Dépêt, being the first dépôt east of Springfeld, and six miles from that city, is but little more than half a mile from the mill sites on this estate, and is connected with them by a level and good road, and may be resdify brought into more immediate connection with them by means of a branch railroad of easy grade, running chiefly over the lands of the estate.

Above the estate, upon branches of the same stream, are the large and fourthing maxufacturing establishments of Ware, Thornéhe Bondville and Three Rivers. These branches unite and form the Chicopee River, which, on its passage through this estate, has attained its full volume.

On the same river, immediately below the estate, and continuous thereto, is the extensive power of the Indian Orchard Canal Company; and a short distance farther down the same stream, are the well known establishments of the Chicopee Mills and the Massachusetts Arms Company at Chicopee Falle; and the Cabotville, operating 60,000 spindies on a fall of It feet.

The fall of the river on this estate, available at the hight of stream, are the well known establishments of the Unscope Mills and the Massachnetts Arms Company at Chicopee Falle; and the Cabot, Perkir. Ames and Dwight manufacturing companies at Cabotville, operating 60,000 spindles on a fail of 27 feet.

The fall of the river on this estate, available at the hight of the present dam is 30½ feet, thus furuishing a more available hight of fail than at any other point in its course, and siroding facilities "x much greater extent of manufacturing and mechanical operations and for the employment of a larger population than any other locality upon the Chicopee River.

The fall may be considerably increased by the srection of a dam at a favorable point some 40 rods above its present location. The bed and banks of the river being of stone, and forming naturi abutinests for a new dam, would resider its concumparatively trifling. The banks of the river and on other side of the river, as well as at various points, such as the nature of the business or the convenience of parties might require.

The location of the village is second to none in the State for salubrity and beauty, and the advantages for the development of its water power and other resources upon an extensive scale and at a comparatively small expense are believed to be anaqualed in the New-England States. The grounds around the mill sites on both sides of the river, present most destrable facilities for the opening of streets and laying out building loss to any extent that might be required for a very large namely in the facilities for the opening of streets and laying out building loss to any extent that might be required for a very large nameling of the buildings. The whole property covers an extent of more than eight hundred acres, a large portion of which is the most valuable tillage lands in the valley of the Chicopee, together with good pasturage and a fair proposition of land heavily timbered.
